Assistant principal for operations named at Glenbard West

James Kelly has been named the new assistant principal for operations at Glenbard West High School in Glen Ellyn. The Board of Education approved his appointment June 12.

Kelly comes to Glenbard West from Schaumburg High School, where he has been assistant principal since 2004. Prior to that, Kelly was assistant principal at William Fremd High School in Palatine and a science teacher at William Fremd High School. Fremd and Schaumburg high schools are in Township High School District 211.

Kelly replaces Rod Molek, who will become Glenbard District 87's assistant superintendent of human resources, effective July 1.

Kelly completed coursework in the doctoral program at Roosevelt University in Chicago and expects to complete his dissertation in summer 2007. He earned a master's degree in educational administration and Type 75 certification at Northern Illinois University in DeKalb and his secondary education certificate at Northeastern Illinois University in Chicago. He received a bachelor's degree in biology from Loyola University in Chicago. Kelly also attended Loyola's graduate school.

Kelly has experience as a director of music, director of religious education, and science and math department chairman. He is interested in community youth activities and is active in church activities.
